FAMILY SESSIONS

Who am I? Your new best mate.

If you're after a formal, uptight, serious photographer you better keep googling. If, however, you are up for a bit of fun and a laugh, I'm your girl.

I first picked up a camera as a teenager, and it was love at first click. But having my son Charlie in early 2016 is what really gave me a passion for photography. As a Mum, I know how precious family photos are, and I mean family photos, as in, not just photos of the kids, or the kids and Dad, but everyone, including Mum. When I shoot, it's my mission to give you photos you'll treasure forever.

It might sound strange, but I usually end up becoming friends with the people I photograph. I just can't help it, I love you guys. If I talk a bit too much, please forgive me, I just love having a chat.

What exactly do I do at a family session?

Let me tell you. My family sessions are fun, relaxed and will leave you feeling loved up. I'm all about capturing families in their element in nature, connecting authentically, revealing the beauty in the ordinary.

Lucky for you I have some AMAZING locations up my sleeve, where I love to take families. Light is my first love, so once we're on location, we'll go where the pretty light is. Then we'll spend an hour in nature together, having fun. Too Easy.

Things we love: messy hair, giggles, grazes on knees, the odd booga. Things we don't love so much: fake smiles, weird poses and awkwardness in general.

Yes, getting your photo taken can feel strange, but by the end I hope you come away thinking "that wasn't so bad, actually, I enjoyed that!". By the end, we'll probably be mates and planning our next coffee date and yoga class. True story.

I know, I know, lots of blokes hate having their photo taken. I get it, it's an unusual experience and you feel a little self-conscious. Well, I'm all for bringing a beer (or 4!) on our little nature trip. Anything to help you relax.

And as for the kids? We pretty much follow their lead. I'm a Mum, I know what it's like trying to get your kid to look at the camera, or keep themselves clean. That's why we embrace the dirt, and we don't worry about looking into the lens. I just capture you as you are.

The nitty gritty and some FAQ

- ◇ Family sessions go for one hour
- ◇ Generally we shoot outdoors at one of my fave locations, but if you have a location in mind, that's cool too
- ◇ If the weather is bad, we can either get our raincoats on and take some cute puddle photos, or reschedule
- ◇ Extended family photos are an extra $100
- ◇ I accept payment in instalments
- ◇ $150 deposit required to secure booking
- ◇ You'll receive around 60-80 images on a USB
- ◇ Albums and prints available
- ◇ For inspiration about what to wear, check out my Instagram or Facebook to see what other clients have worn.
