WEDDING INVESTMENT

Who am I? Your new best mate.

If you're after a formal, uptight, serious photographer you better keep googling. If, however, you are up for a bit of fun and a laugh, I'm your girl.

I first picked up a camera as a teenager, and it was love at first click. But having my son Charlie in early 2016 is what really gave me a passion for photography.

Although I'm a mum, I love a good time, and I tend to blend in at weddings. I often get mistaken for a guest, because I'm laid back and like a chat. No stuffy corporate shirt and black slacks over here!

What is your approach to weddings?

The last thing I want is for you to feel like your photos are nothing like the real you. I hate over-posed photos, and I bet you do too. My approach is to get you relaxed and comfortable, and give you enough guidance that you don't feel like you're totally out of your depth, but not so much that you feel really forced and awkward. I just capture you as you are.

I know, I know, lots of blokes hate having their photo taken. I get it, it's an unusual experience and you feel a little self-conscious. Well, I'm all for bringing a beer (or 4!) on our little trip. Anything to help you relax.

Yes, getting your photo taken can feel weird, but by the end of your wedding day I hope you come away thinking "that wasn't so bad, actually, I enjoyed that!". To be honest, we'll probably be planning our next coffee date and yoga class. True story.
